12 July 1985

MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director of Central Intelligence

VIA: Deputy Director, Intelligence Community Staff

15 JUL 1985

FROM:

[Redacted]
Executive Secretary

SUBJECT: Foreign Language Committee Monthly Report - June 1985

STAT

At the 12 June meeting of the Foreign Language Committee (FLC), the Department of Defense (DoD) representative, Mr. Craig Wilson, briefed members on the followup to the Association of American Universities study (commissioned by the Army on behalf of the DoD-University Forum): "Beyond Growth: The Next Stage in Language and Area Studies". The DoD-University Forum has approved the creation of a task force to act on three items: first, to delineate the 32 recommendations made by the task force, identifying actions, milestones, and programming implications; second, to promulgate the Defense Language Proficiency Test as a "strawman" for a national metric on language proficiency; and third, to begin work on a DoD input to the creation of a national foundation/endowment for foreign language and area studies.

[Redacted] Many of the 32 recommendations made in the study may be addressed directly by the Secretary of Defense; others fall within the purview of the Congress, the Office of Management and Budget, and the Secretary of Education. As required, guidance will be sought of the Director of Central Intelligence (via the FLC) and of the Secretary of State and, possibly, the President's Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board. The FLC is particularly gratified that the DoD-University Forum plans to recommend the Defense Language Proficiency Test as a model for adoption by academia. Should this come to pass, members of the Community hiring college graduates would have a precise knowledge of candidates' foreign language skills according to Community-accepted standards.
